Second order methods comparison in anisotropic design